CADBURY NIGERIA PLC (CADBURY) – HOLD

- The shares of CADBURY lost 4.59% last week to close at N14.95. CADBURY trades at forward PE of 44.5x, above its 5-year historical average of 24.9x.
- Despite growing revenue by 13.3% y/y and reducing operating expenses by 6% y/y, CADBURY's Q1-17 PAT fell by 86.2% y/y, way behind our -47% y/y estimate. The revenue growth was driven by relatively higher prices while lower opex reflects continued savings (+1.6% opex in 2016FY) following the implementation of zero-based budgeting system.
- The higher-than-expected decline in earnings follows bigger contraction of gross margin and a net finance of N24.8 million (vs. net income in Q1-16) reported during the period. While noting visibility constraint, our hunch is that the bigger-than-expected decline in margin could be mix, or energy related. While finance income fell 31% y/y, a finance charge of N62.2 million (vs. Nil in Q1-16) was reported against the N1.71 billion overdraft facility drawn during the period.
- Following the result, we have revised CADBURY's 2017-18F EBITDA lower by 28% average, largely on more conservative expectation of margin recovery. And while TP has been consequently lowered to N15.06 (previously N16.10), we recommend a HOLD on the stock.

DANGOTE SUGAR REFINERY PLC (DANGSUGAR) – SELL

- The shares of DANGSUGAR waned 7.17% last week to close at N9.06. DANGSUGAR trades at forward PE of 6.2x, below its 5-year historical average of 7.5x.
- DANGSUGAR reported Q1-17 revenue (82.5% y/y), EBITDA (13.8% y/y), and PAT (42.5% y/y) that were well ahead of Q1-16. Annualized, revenue and PAT are above consensus by 30.9% and 1.4% respectively. The revenue growth was driven by the significantly higher average price (121% y/y), which more than compensated for relatively lower sales volume (17% y/y). Management said it sold 174,981 tonnes of sugar during the period, 7% more than the 164,129 tonnes achieved in Q4-16, and 13% above our estimate.
- Also positively impacting PAT was the significant increase in investment income (N971.4 million vs. N7.1 million in Q1-16), enabled by growing cash generation, and consequent investments in short term, high interest yielding money market instruments. In addition, an amount of N122.5 million was reported as fair value adjustment on biological assets, compared to -N80.3 million in Q1-16. And while operating expenses increased by 29.1% y/y, it fell by 136 bps y/y as a proportion of revenue.
- Although gross margin improved from the trough of 7.3% in Q4-16, the 13.2% realized during the period was significantly shy of the 20% guided by management, and lower than our 14.7% estimate. Management had cited the (1) purchase of forex at a relatively lower average rate (compared to Q4-2016) and (2) higher output from Savannah where margins are higher, as the potential enablers of margin recovery.
- Overall, DANGSUGAR's Q1-17 PAT is consistent with our strong growth expectation (22%) for 2017F. We look for lower PAT growth in subsequent quarters as narrowing y/y price differential (with sales volume unlikely to improve significantly from current level) forces revenue growth to taper. We recommend a SELL on the stock.

FLOUR MILLS OF NIGERIA PLC – BUY

- The shares of FLOURMILL gained 3.3% to close at N28.50. FLOURMILL trades at 2018 PE of 13.6x, below its 5-year average of 19x.
- Despite the outperformance on revenue (10% more than Cordros' estimate), FLOURMILL's Q3-16/17 PBT came behind our forecast by 83%. The key outliers during the period were other operating losses (+36% ahead) and finance costs (+310% ahead). The former was impacted by foreign exchange loss while finance costs spiked with the increase in outstanding loans.
- As FLOURMILL sets to wrap the 2017FY, we see the robust y/y revenue growth experienced thus far extending into the final quarter. Overall, we estimate 2017FY revenue growth to be north of 50% at N517.9 billion.

- That said, we have revised Q4-16/17 loss after tax higher (from N310.3 million to N2.7 billion) after providing for potentially bigger -- than previously expected -- FX loss (on continued depreciation of the naira exchange rate at autonomous markets) and finance costs (against a bigger gross debt). Consequently upon the revisions, in addition to the weak performance (relative to our expectation) in the third quarter, we have revised 2017FY PAT lower to N5.7 billion (previously N7.5 billion).
- Notwithstanding, it bears noting that FLOURMILL impressed in 2017FY, coming from back-to-back losses in 2015FY and 2016FY (excluding one-off gains) and considering the challenging business environment. Notwithstanding the cut in target price to N49.24 (previously N51.71), our current 12-month TP represents upside potential of 72.8% from current levels; consequently, we maintain BUY recommendation on the stock.

GUINNESS NIGERIA PLC – HOLD

- The shares of GUINNESS closed flat last week to at N73.00. GUINNESS trades at 2018 PE of 36.2x, above its 5-year average of 27.7x.
- GUINNESS released Q3-17 results, and surprised with a record gross margin (54.71%) recovery that was by far the biggest contributor to the company's first quarterly profit in exactly one year. Also supporting the PAT of N2.1 billion reported during the period was a 53.6% y/y increase in revenue. The high double-digit y/y revenue growth mainly reflects the impact of higher mean price, in addition to GUINNESS' renewed commitment to RTM (especially at the retail end), higher export sales (224% y/y), broader products portfolio (e.g spirits and the launch of Guinness Herbs), and the resilience of value brands (Satzbrau and Dubic Malt).
- The realized gross margin (GM) was higher 988 bps y/y and 3010 bps q/q. While noting the transmission from the recent price increases, margins have also benefitted from some productivity programmes (see note) via which DIAGEO (the parent company of GUINNESS) said most of the margin headwinds in Nigeria are being mitigated.
- On the negative however, opex increased by 43.2% y/y and 25.2% q/q, with the margin of 41% being the highest under the current financial year. Also worth highlighting is the 125.7% y/y increase in finance charges, comprising N435 million loss (Nil in Q3-16) on foreign exchange transactions and N2.1 billion (87.4% y/y and 12.4% q/q) as interest expense on loans and borrowings and overdraft facilities.
- Following the result, we have revised our LAT estimate for 2017F lower to N3.5 billion (from N5.1 billion) and increased PAT estimate for 2018F to N4.4 from N1.89 billion.

NIGERIAN BREWERIES PLC – SELL

- The shares of NB appreciated 5.1% last week to close at N164.00. NB trades at forward PE of 28.9x, below its 5-year average of 31.5x.
- NB's reported Q1-17 result impressed on two main fronts: (1) 18% y/y revenue growth and (2) 255 bps q/q expansion of gross margin. Both were ahead of Cordros' (+3% y/y and +38 bps q/q respectively) and consensus (5% y/y revenue growth) estimates.
- Revenue benefitted strongly from the high pricing regime. We recall that NB increased prices on some SKUs in January, in addition to the increases implemented in the second half of last year. Relative to Q1-16, NB's average prices are currently higher by about 20% (Cordros' estimate), sufficient to compensate for the mid single-digit decline in volume, as reported by the management.
- Although gross margin was lower y/y, it was better than we expected, and also reasonably ahead of Q4-16's, which we consider a "litmus test" for our coverage of FMCG companies. While pricing continues to support margin recovery from the record-low Q3-16 level, the sharp appreciation of the Naira at the parallel market (where producers still meet considerable FX requirements) during the period, signaling possible productivity savings, may have underpinned the q/q margin improvement.
- Overall, in our view, NB's sales volume, notwithstanding the modest decline, has shown resilience, considering the magnitude of price increases implemented thus far. And while this will combine with higher average price to drive double-digit revenue growth over 2017F, improving liquidity of FX (potentially reducing the amount of USD requirement purchased from alternative markets), if sustained with continued focus on cost efficiencies, will act as tailwinds for margin and profitability. We have revised NB's TP higher to N120.17 (previously N106.95), but have SELL recommendation on the stock.

NESTLE NIGERIA PLC – SELL

- The shares of NESTLE lost 5.9% last week to close at N907.00. NESTLE trades at 12-M PE of 22.3x, below its 5-year average of 43x.
- NESTLE grew PAT by 25% y/y in Q1-17, supported by the increase in revenue and finance income, which offset lower-than-expected gross margin and the increase in opex. On y/y basis, the revenue growth benefitted from both a lower base in the same period of last year and the price increases taken since H2-2016. Importantly, the impact of the price increase taken in the early part of this year reflected in the q/q revenue growth (16.6%), NESTLE's first Q1 growth over Q4 since 2012. Revenue from the Food division grew by 87.9% y/y while Beverage division posted 42.1% y/y topline growth.
- Finance income increased by 441.7% y/y, benefiting from the continued build-up of cash. In addition to the amount of cash held in short term investments being 25% above Q1-16 value, finance income has also benefitted from the rising interest rate environment.
- That said, a negative surprise from the result is the 622 bps q/q (wider than CADBURY's -573 bps q/q) contraction of NESTLE's gross margin to 38%, at a time we expected consumer goods companies to sustain and modestly improve their Q4-16 gross margins. NESTLE's gross margin was behind our 42% estimate. In addition, finance cost increased by 95.87% y/y, driven majorly by a net FX loss of N1.03 billion (vs. N16.1 million in Q1-16). This appears to us as the NGN devaluation effect of NESTLE's bloated book value of USD borrowings, standing at about N45 billion, from about N27 billion in Q1-16.
- Overall, NESTLE's performance beat both our expectation and consensus. We have revised 2017-2018F EBITDA higher by 22% average, and consequently increase TP to N812.5 (SELL), from N569.80 (SELL).

PZ CUSSONS NIGERIA PLC – SELL

- The shares of PZ gained 0.2% last week to close at N22.00. PZ trades at 2018 PE of 27.6x, below its 5-year average of 37.3x.
- PZ's Q3-16/17 result showed further improvement in profitability (from the loss reported in the first quarter) with 117% y/y and 46% q/q PAT growth respectively. The PAT (N1.89 billion) beat our estimate (N764.4 million) by a wide margin, primarily on higher-than-expected revenue (20% variance).
- The relatively lower COS and opex margins also accounted for the variance between the reported PAT and our estimate. By revising Q4-16/17 estimate higher, and accounting for the positive surprise in the third quarter, we have increased 2017 PAT to N3.36 billion (previously N1.19 billion). PZ has implemented aggressive price hikes which, in addition to restoring margin to parity with historical levels, have positioned revenue to grow at the highest since 2009.
- That said, it is unlikely that PZ will replicate 2017 performance next year. We expect revenue growth will be weaker as price increases slow down, and yet, demand in the Personal Care and Electrical divisions take time to recover. In addition, PZ's linkage to FX volatility via imports remains substantial, and save for major improvement in NGN/USD exchange rate or the moderation of raw material input prices, there are no visible internal measures that would lower production costs in the short term.
- We rolled forward valuation to 2018 and revised TP to N14.29 (previously N10.41). PZ's stock has appreciated with the broad rally on the local, and currently trades at 35.1% discount to our TP. SELL.

UNILEVER NIGERIA PLC – SELL

- The shares of UNILEVER gained 20.9% last week to close at N42.99. UNILEVER trades at forward PE of 35.7x, below its 5-year average of 61.8x.
- Unilever's reported Q1-17 result impressed on two main fronts: (1) revenue grew by 32% y/y while (2) operating expenses fell by 14.1% y/y. Both came in well-ahead of our +9% y/y and +2% y/y estimates respectively. On the negative, gross margin contracted by 756 bps y/y to 28.4% (and below our benchmark of 31%) while finance costs, higher by 33% y/y, came in 55% above our estimate. Overall, PBT and PAT grew by 53.6% y/y and 53.9% y/y respectively.

- The shareholders of UNILEVER recently approved the board resolution to raise up to N63 billion by way of Rights Issue. Through the RI, UNILEVER will convert the loan obtained from the parent company into equity, and deploy the balance of the proceeds to (1) the repayment of outstanding commercial bank loans (priced at 14% as at end-2016), (2) the settlement of backlogs of trade payables, as well as (3) working capital and capital expenditure investments.
- In addition, the management of the company notified the NSE of the recent announcement by its parent company -- Unilever Group -- of the intention to divest its spreads business as part of the outcome of the strategic review embarked on. In line with this announcement, we expect UNILEVER to launch the process to sell its spreads business (Blue Band), which by our estimate -- (1) accounts for about 13% of gross revenue, (2) has the biggest share of the spreads market, and according to management (3) continues to perform impressively (with expansion plan recently decided at the group level).
- While the Q1-17 result appears impressive from the point of view of revenue and opex, concern is on the continued pressure on gross profit (+4% y/y). This, if not addressed, portends imminent earnings weakness in the event that revenue growth runs out of steam and opex starts to rise (as we expect). We increased 2017-2018F EBITDA by 23.7% average and revised TP higher to N26.61 (previously N21.06). SELL rating is maintained.

DANGOTE CEMENT PLC – HOLD

- The shares of DANGCEM closed flat last week to close at N205.00. DANGCEM trades at forward PE of 15.8x, below its 5-year average of 17.2x.
- DANGCEM grew Q1-17 revenue (48.1% y/y and 20.3% q/q), EBITDA (42.3% y/y and 31.6% q/q), and PAT (33.7% y/y and 32.9% q/q). Revenue and PAT were both ahead of our +20.6% y/y and -8% y/y estimates respectively. Consensus estimates were +24% y/y and -0.2% y/y revenue and net profit respectively.
- The revenue growth was underpinned by higher average prices (58% y/y estimate), which more than compensated for the decline in volume (6.6% y/y vs. Cordros' -5% y/y estimate). Expectedly, the Group volume was dragged by the Nigerian operation, wherein shipment fell by 16.5% y/y. The non-Nigerian volume grew by 16.4% y/y and 12.9% q/q.
- Gross margin (GM) recovered well-ahead of Q4-16's (46.7%), reaching 57.8% (+209 bps y/y) and ahead of our 50.4% estimate. Again, Group GM benefited from the surprise in the Nigerian operation, wherein GM hit 72% (the first since Q2-15). The Pan-African GM (19.9%), on the other hand, was below Q1-16's, but recovered from the record trough of 12.6% achieved in Q4-16.
- Group opex rose by 68.6% y/y, and 38.2% above Q4-16's. In Nigeria, opex was 103.4% higher y/y while the non-Nigeria opex grew by 96.2% y/y. In both markets, haulage expenses (147% y/y Nigeria and 133% y/y Pan-Africa) contributed to the significant increase in opex. Hence while EBITDA grew, EBITDA margin fell 204 bps y/y, with Nigerian realized 62.7% margin (though higher y/y) coming below the Q4-16's 64.4% margin which management said it is targeting.
- Overall, DANGCEM's result is impressive, with EBITDA consistent with management optimistic outlook. We have increased 2017-2018F EBITDA by 13%, revised TP higher to N203.91 (previously N187.52), and revised our recommendation to a HOLD.

LAFARGE AFRICA PLC – BUY

- The shares of LAFARGE lost by 0.9% last week to close at N53.50. LAFARGE trades at forward PE of 10.9x, below its 5-year average of 11.8x.
- Lafarge Africa Plc (LAFARGE) announced Q1-17 PAT of N5.2 billion (vs. -N1.9 billion in Q1-16), driven by (1) 55% y/y increase in revenue, (2) comparatively higher gross margin, and (3) higher investment and other incomes. The PAT, however, was behind consensus, owing to higher effective tax rate.
- Cement revenue grew by 61% y/y, as relatively higher price in both Nigeria and South Africa more than offset the lower sales volume experienced in both markets. In Nigeria, sales volume grew by 6% compared to Q4-16, but was down by 12% y/y. In absolute terms, the N81.3 billion revenue reported during the period is the second largest (behind the N99.1 billion reported in Q4-15) since the emergence of Lafarge Africa.

- The strong start to the year notwithstanding, the low point of the result was the 1247 bps q/q contraction of margin, which contradicted management's claim that it continues to witness savings from (1) energy efficiency, via increasing substitution of alternative fuel and (2) de-correlation of FX, via local sourcing and energy diversification. Although not communicated during the analysts' call, management claimed the Q4-16 GM was driven higher by one-offs, relating to accounting treatment of gas contracts and some other costing.
- That said, LAFARGE's latest result, excluding the surprises, was consistent with the performance in Q4-16, and in line with consensus expectation of an improvement in the company's performance following the tough operating environment in 2016. Management retained its 0-2% demand growth, and flat to declining outlook, for both the Nigerian and South African markets respectively. We retain BUY recommendation on the stock.

GUARANTY TRUST BANK PLC – SELL

- The shares of GUARANTY appreciated 6.7% last week to close at N35.73. GUARANTY trades at forward PE of 6.6x, above its 5-year average of 6.2x.
- Despite the sector-wide challenges, GUARANTY's impressive cost management strategy and sizeable portfolio of fixed income instruments remain key drivers of profitability. The balance sheet size ranks it in the Tier-1 category based on total assets size which stood at N3.43 trillion as at Q1:2017.
- In Q1-17, GUARANTY posted a strong top line growth with Gross Earnings up 40.01% y/y driven by 50.64% y/y and 9.83% y/y surge in Interest Income and noninterest income, respectively. While interest expense rose during the period, the impressive uptick in asset yields more than offset the growth in funding costs to drive 248 bps y/y growth in NIM to 10.60% in Q1-17. In the same vein, cost-to-income ratio fell significantly (727 bps y/y and 1977 bps q/q) to 38.34%, following moderation in opex (down 5.41% y/y). Accordingly, PAT rose 53.44% y/y to N119.93 billion.
- In line with the impressive performance, we revised GUARANTY's 2017F asset yield higher to 12.95%, translating to interest income of 330 billion and NIR of N103 billion. Consequently, our gross earnings estimate is raised higher to N437 billion, despite cutting our Non-Interest Income forecast to ₦85 billion. Also, given the marginal contraction in cost of risk, we have adjusted loan loss expectation to N35 billion. Overall, we forecast FY-17 PBT and PAT of N197 billion and N158 billion, translating to an EPS of ₦5.39. Our current 12-month TP of N30.72 represents downside potential of 14.02% from current levels; consequently, we revise our recommendation to a SELL on the stock.

ZENITH BANK PLC – HOLD

- The shares of ZENITH gained 10.6% last week to close at N22.89. ZENITH trades at forward PE of 5.0x, in line with its 5-year average of 5.0x.
- We remain bullish on ZENITH, given its strong CAR in the banking sector as the bank continues to leverage on its stringent risk assessment framework to mitigate capital erosion. Despite the significant y/y rise in risk asset following the currency devaluation, ZENITHBANK's capital and liquidity ratios (CAR: 22% and L.R: 66.0%) still remained strong despite a surge in NPL to 3.2% from 2.2% in FY-17.
- ZENITH last week announced it has successfully completed the Second Tranche 5-year Eurobond (coupon: 7.375%) of US$500 million as part of its US$1 billion Global Medium Term Note Programme. The programme was priced at 113 bps premium to the first tranche maturing in 2019.
- In Q1-17, ZENITH recorded strong y/y growth in interest income, driven by expansion in the naira yield curve, however, NIM contracted 20 bps y/y to 7.70%, as funding costs tracked significantly higher by 180 bps – due to the translation impact of NGN depreciation on FCY borrowing and deposits – CASA (+85.34% y/y) and term deposits (+99.02% y/y) broadly reflective of the relatively higher interest rate environment. In the same vein, NIR rose 94.28% y/y and 3.07% q/q, largely reflective of the surge in fee income (34.85% y/y due to higher account maintenance fees) and monumental growth in trading income.
- Accordingly, gross earnings surged 48.58% y/y and 15.74% q/q to offset the cost pressure (opex rose 24.24% y/y and 45.25% q/q) - cost to income ratio tracked higher by 473 bps y/y to 52.14%. Overall, PBT and PAT improved 37.60% y/y and 41.12% y/y, respectively.

- Following the impressive Q1-17 performance, we revise ZENITH's 2017F Interest Income higher to N478 billion - to reflect the stronger yield on asset, and NIR of N107 billion. Consequently, we revise gross earnings estimate higher to N586 billion. Also, to reflect the y/y contraction in COR, we revise our loan loss expectation to ₦28 billion. Overall, we raise our FY'17F PBT and PAT to N177 billion and N145 billion – translating to an EPS of ₦4.62. Our current 12-month TP of N21.81 represents a downside potential of 9.0% from current levels; consequently, we place a HOLD recommendation on the stock.

UNITED BANK FOR AFRICA PLC – HOLD

- The shares of UBA shed 3.6% last week to close at N8.68. UBA trades at forward PE of 4.1x, above its 5-year average of 3.2x.
- In its recently released Q1-17 results, BA's gross earnings expanded 36.58% y/y, with PBT and PAT expanding 40.85% y/y and 31.58% y/y respectively. However, q/q gross earnings waned 14.28%, with further contraction in PBT (-12.44% q/q) -- the q/q weakness reflects slowdown across both revenues segments: interest income (-5.21% q/q) and non-interest revenues (-39.19% q/q).
- The q/q contraction in interest income is on the back of further assets quality deterioration which drove 40 bps y/y uptick in COR to 0.80% reflecting the growth in NPLs (up 225 bps to 3.95%), while CAR shrank 60 bps to 19.4%, albeit, above the required 16.0% for SIBs.
- Given the pressure on asset quality, we have revised our estimate across a few line items. Notably, we raised our estimate of COR above management's guidance by 5 bps to 1.55%, 106bps contraction in assets yield to 9.15% and marginal decline in CoF to 3.68%. However, we estimate interest income to track higher to N300 billion, while we expect NIR to decline to N93 billion to book gross earnings of N410 billion. Overall, we estimate a N90 billion and N77 billion PBT and PAT for FY-17F, translating to an EPS of ₦2.14. Our current 12-month TP of N8.84 represents a marginal upside potential of 1.8% from current levels; consequently, we recommend a HOLD on the stock.

ACCESS BANK PLC – HOLD

- The shares of ACCESS lost by 3.9% last week to close at N10.00. ACCESS trades at forward PE of 2.9x, in line with its 5-year average of 2.9x.
- ACCESS continued its impressive performance in Q1-17 with gross earnings growing 44.45% y/y and 8.60% q/q. This follows higher-than-expected growth across key line items; interest income (+43.10% y/y and 20.06% q/q) and NIR (+47.48% y/y and -20.06% q/q). Accordingly, PBT (+38.19% y/y and 70.21% q/q) and PAT (+33.98% y/y and 81.41% q/q) moved in the same direction.
- In the last few years, ACCESS has grown its asset base and currently ranks as a Tier-1 bank with total assets of N3.48 trillion as at Q1-17. Despite the increasing risk assets creation, ACCESS' CAR remained high at 21.0% in Q1-17, well above regulatory threshold of 15.0% for SIBs. While, NPL came in higher by 50 bps in Q1-17 to 2.2%, the uptick in COR was far less (10 bps to 0.70%).
- To reflect the impressive performance in Q1-17, we have updated our model, with notable changes in asset yield, cost of fund, NIM, CIR and cost-to-income to 11.35%, 4.58%, 6.35%, 1.2% and 55.66%, respectively. As such, we forecast interest and noninterest revenue of N353 billion and N112 billion respectively, to book gross earnings of N466 billion. Overall, we raise our FY-17F PBT and PAT to N122 billion and N99 billion – translating to an EPS of N3.44. Our current 12-month TP of N9.76 represents a marginal upside potential of 1.8% from current levels; consequently, we recommend a HOLD on the stock.

FBN HOLDINGS PLC – SELL

- The shares of FBNH declined 1.8% last week to close at N6.89. FBNH trades at forward PE of 13.3x, above its 5-year historical average of 6.3x.
- FBNH continues to record double digit top line performance, with gross earnings growth of 15.17% y/y in FY-16, buoyed by growth in net insurance premium (+14.85% y/y) and significant improvement in NIR (+70.56% y/y). PBT and PAT increased 6.68% y/y and 12.16% y/y respectively. In line with its consistent dividend payout, FBNH declared a dividend of 20 kobo, representing 41.88% payout ratio.

- Also, FBNH released its results for Q1-2017, recording double-digit growth in gross earning (+31.22%), driven by a surge in interest income (+36.75% y/y), while net insurance premium and non-interest income also grew by 8.77% y/y and 10.52% y/y respectively. However, during the quarter, PBT and PAT declined 9.48% and 22.08% y/y respectively.
- For both periods (FY-16 and Q1-17), pressure on asset quality persists, with NPL further tracking higher to 24.4% (from 18.1% in FY-15) in FY-16 and 26.0% in Q1-17 (Vs. 21.5% in Q1-16). As such, CoR remain elevated for both periods at 10.4% (Vs. 5.7% in FY-15) and 4.8% (Vs. 2.6% in Q1-16) to record 89.43% and 125.98% y/y growth in loan loss provisioning in FY-16 and Q1-17, respectively.
- In line with the performance in both periods, with emphasis on the Q1-17 results, we have updated our model. We forecast interest income to grow by 7.42% to N435 billion and 33.59% decline in NIR to N429 billion. Also, we estimate marginal decline in loan loss provision for FY-17 to N176 billion. Overall, our FY-17 PBT and PAT forecasts are N25 billion and N18 billion PBT respectively, translating to an EPS of N0.52. Our current 12-month TP of N5.37 represents downside potential of 22.1% from current levels; consequently, we recommend a SELL on the stock.
